

The Department of Philosophy, the Institute of Applied Physics and Mathematics and the Institute of Mathematics and Quantitative Methods of the University of Pardubice have the pleasure of inviting you to a one-day cross-disciplinary conference

Humanity in the Era of Specialized Knowledge and Science

Date: Friday, 2 August 2019, from 9:30 to 14:00

Place: University of Pardubice, Lecture building EB in the Polabiny Areal

Invited guests:

Professor Hasok Chang, Department of History and Philosophy of Science at the University of Cambridge; the Lakatos Award in Philosophy of Science and the Fernando Gil International Prize in the Philosophy of Science laureate.

Lecture: Beyond Correspondence – Realism for Realistic People

Professor Ladislav Kvasz, Institute of Philosophy of the Czech Academy of Sciences and Pedagogical faculty of Charles University in Prague; Fernando Gil International Prize in the Philosophy of Science laureate.

Lecture: Geometry in the Development of Western Painting

Other Contributions:

Anton Markoš: „Chemistry“ of the Living

Lukáš Zámečník: The Theory of Everything for Everyone

Michal Černý: The New Style of Thinking – the Problem of Specialisation, Multiparadigmatic and the Crisis of Scientific Identity

The conference will be open to students, professionals and the interested public.

Complete programme: www.filosofie.upce.cz; www.nielsbohr.cz

Contact: e-mail: filip.grygar@upce.cz; mobile: (+420)602 631 368

University of Pardubice Faculty of Arts and Philosophy